Dear Head Start Directors and Family Services Supervisors;

The new Parent, Family Community Engagement (PFCE) framework requires HUGE changes about how Head Start Family Workers assist families. Our courses cover all of the Relationship Based Competencies. The Office of Head Start eventually wants each local program to develop their in-house training capacity. Sending your staff to our courses is one way to develop the ability of your staff to provide that training. Whether your staff take the courses for college credit or not, they can (a) acquire the latest knowledge and skills needed to implement the PFCE framework, and (b) use our curriculum and materials for training other staff back home.

We provide these courses for college credit for Head Start staff in conjunction with the California State University East Bay. To the best of our knowledge, we are the only West Coast provider of university-credit courses that are keyed exactly to the Relationship Based Competencies in the PFCE framework. These courses take place during the summer at the California State University downtown Oakland campus. The Summer Institute faculty are drawn from the Schools of Social Work and Social Welfare at U.C. Berkeley, CSU East Bay, San Francisco State, and other area universities and their MSW graduates, and from Head Start programs. These courses have also been conducted on-site for the City of Oakland, Riverside County Office of Education, Tulare County Office of Education, Merced County Office of Education, and others.

Completion of four of the Basic Skills courses leads to issuance of the Certificate in Family Development from California State University (CSU). About 950 of our students have successfully transferred CSU college credits to dozens of different academic institutions. No academic institution has refused to accept the credits from CSU.

All Institute participants get:

- Four days of family development and case management training based on the latest in social work theory and practice.
- A workbook with many useful materials.
- college credits available to be used towards the CSU Certificate in Family Development or toward an A.A. or B.A. ($134 per unit.) Over 950 have transferred CSU credits to their schools back home.
- CEUs for LCSWs or MFTs from CSU (for Management Institute only).
- After Hours: A free guided tour of San Francisco for the first 49 registrants.
- And a reception hosted by the Center for Community Futures.

The Institutes do not include room and board.

Hotels: We have a small block of rooms at a historic landmark (old) boutique (funky) hotel located in "Old Oakland" across the street from the CSU downtown site. The Washington Inn is at 495 10th Street, Oakland, CA 94607. Phone 510-452-1776 www.thewashingtoninn.com Basic Skills 1-2 Group Promotional Code is CFCF5. There is no "one way" to do family development. The Institutes provide a wide range of social work, family development and case management methods from which you can choose. Adapt their ideas to your local needs. See you there.
